The following report for mishes background information on the situation within the Odria cabinet in Port at the time of the appointment of Col. Imilia Peyroyra as the new Minuter of Finance.

- 1. Peyreyra's appointment was hade without the knowledge of the entire cabinet, and when Alfonse Lloss learned of the designation from the newspapers, he refused to strand the swaring in of the new minister.
- 2. General Zenon Noriega visited bloss and talked with him for two hours attempting to appease his wrate and to persuade him to talk directly to Odria. Llosa finally agreed to see Caria. Before going to the Palace for the conference, he had a long talk with Schator Luis A. Flores, leader of the Union Revolucionaria (UR).
- Mores promised Lices the complete support of the UR, and urged that he put pressure on Oaria in favor of an early statement on the question of elections. Llosa agreed to this policy and stated to Plores that he would also demand a second condition from the Provident, un only the reorganization of the Military Junto. This would involve the displayed of several cabine's ministers distastaful to bloss, of whom only Jose Villacorta was icon ified. Flores quoted Llose as saying just before leaving for the Palace "If Odria refuses my two conditions, his days as President of the Junta are membered."
